The Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies is a U.S. Department of Defense executive education institution that addresses regional and global security issues, inviting military and civilian representatives of the United States and Indo-Pacific nations to its comprehensive program of resident courses and workshops, both in Hawaii and throughout the Indo-Pacific region. Through these events the Center provides a focal point where military, policy-makers, and civil society can gather to educate each other on regional issues, connect with a network of committed individuals, and empower themselves to enact cooperative solutions to the region's security challenges.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

This book would not have been possible without the hard work and innovative ideas of many people. The theme of the book emerged from discussion within the faculty floor of the Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies. Like most edited volumes, the book relies on the volunteer work of its authors. The editor received numerous useful insights from Mike Burgoyne and Scott McDonald, the editors of the most recent DKI APCSS book, China's Global Influence. The authors worked closely with the editor, Dean Carleton Cramer of the College of Security Studies, and Mary Markovinovic to enhance the quality of their chapters. Mary was also the chief producer of the book, with all the troubles—and joy—of this job. Tami Rosado did the meticulous work of copyediting. Our interns Joshua Turner helped with copyediting, proofreading, and indexing; Elizeh Basim and Cidney Hopkins with indexing and proofreading; and Mahogany Rasmussen with copyediting. The front and back covers of the book are the creative work of Nelson Gaspar and Debra Castro. Associate Dean Gene Richards, Darren Adams, Toni Difante, Debbie Fikac, Flo Rapozo, Armenio Salaguinto, and Robin Taylor supported in various capacities. The idea of a publication for the 25th anniversary of DKI APCSS was born three years before this book. It was Director Pete Gumataotao who turned it into a reality.
