MAY 2024

Maluhia Talks About Defense Industrial Base Resilience

Looking for ways to build resilience was the focus of the recent Maluhia Talks 2024 hosted by the Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies.

Held April 30 to May 2, 2024, in Honolulu, the event brought together more than 40 government security professionals and industry representatives. It was a follow-up event to the DKI APCSS Defense Industry Base workshop held in January.

According to Principal Deputy Assistant Secretary for Indo-Pacific Security Affairs, Mr. Jedidiah Royal, "I appreciated the opportunity to again talk with allies and partners who are dealing with these same issues and discuss ways of moving forward together. These discussions and closer ties are consistent with the U.S. Indo-Pacific Strategy, but they are also compatible with most of our allies' and partners' regional strategies as well. We all want a stable region, and we will work to get there together." Read more...
